

BLOCK SEAT

From another time and place.

The anchor – for starting and continuing conversations. Influenced by archaic structures and carved from 75-year-old timber by human hands, there's boldness in the individuality and unique markings; it's intimately intentional.

A rare and precious piece in the collection, owing to the dimension-defying size. Tasked with sourcing an antique log large enough to carve out this chair's base, traditional woodworkers then craft the slab into this statement block.
