

CALDER BUFFET

A Stillness in Form

Both practical and poetic, this buffet grounds a space while inviting interaction – to store, to style, to admire. The generous frame is formed from timber and resin, then veiled in a hand-painted plaster finish to soften the surface and accentuate each curve and edge. An anchor in the room, designed to disappear into it until looked at closely.

Lengths of timber panels are hand-carved and cut by skilled artisans in a sacred temple village. Using a traditional chisel, these hands create multi-faceted cabinet doors – intricate details in each element. To finish, a resin plaster is applied throughout, resulting in a smooth white surface, a practical backdrop for your space.
